IN THE ABSTRACT

Please replace the abstract with the following replacement abstract:

A coaxial radio frequency adapter is disclosed and method are disclosed. An adapter has a tapered signal pin and a tapered ground sleeve to maintain a consistent impedance and minimize reflections while connecting two elements having different dimensions. A method employs an adapter to characterize losses in a system for evaluating a device under test.